IIPC 2027
Khandala

Hello, I'm Dr. Budai (PT)

I am the cheerful new face of our IIPC

My name is inspired by Budai, the cheerful Chinese monk often known as the Laughing Buddha. "Budai" means cloth sack, referring to the bag he was traditionally shown carrying.

Over time, he became a symbol of happiness, contentment, and generosity.

Although often called the Laughing Buddha, Budai is distinct from Gautama Buddha and is traditionally associated with Maitreya, the future Buddha.

I'm here to bring that joyful spirit to physiotherapy—sharing happiness, wellness, movement, and knowledge wherever I go. Let's learn, move, and grow together!

With a Namaste, I welcome you all !
Get ready to meet me at Khandala.

Without wasting time let me show you what we have this year at IIPC !

IIPC 2027 Khandala

A congress built to move Indian physiotherapy forward.

What is the Vision?

Designing the 100-Year Life.

The Physio Blueprint for Lifelong Movement.

Physiotherapy is entering a new era—one shaped by lifelong movement, preventive health, performance, and meaningful professional growth.

Our vision for IIPC 2027 is to create a gathering that goes beyond lectures: where clinical science meets practical experience, ideas turn into opportunities, and India's physiotherapy community grows together.

Our Guiding Mentor

Prof. Dr. Ali Irani

Ph.D. Ph.D. DPT
International Affairs IAP
Principal Physiotherapy - NMIMS University

Head of Department :
Physiotherapy & Sports Medicine
Nanavati Max Hospital

"His visionary guidance and unwavering support have been the cornerstone of our conference's success, continually inspiring clinical excellence and professional growth.

We extend our deepest gratitude to our esteemed mentor for shaping this academic milestone with his profound wisdom and leadership."

Our Guiding Advisory Board

"Our heartfelt appreciation goes to our esteemed Advisory Board, whose invaluable wisdom, strategic foresight, and constant encouragement have shaped the vision of this congress. Their leadership continues to inspire excellence and drive innovation across the physiotherapy community."

Scientifica

The Abstract presentation.

The Scientific & Programme Committee of the Indian International Physiotherapy Congress (IIPC) cordially invites Physiotherapy Interns, Undergraduate (UG) and Postgraduate (PG) Students, Researchers, Academicians, and Qualified Physiotherapists to submit their scientific abstracts for presentation at IIPC 2027, scheduled to be held in January 2027 at Khandala, Maharashtra.

Presentation Format

Scientific Abstract & Research Presentations

- Presentation of original research, clinical studies, case reports, and evidence-based innovations.
- Clear and structured communication of scientific findings.
- Use of concise text, graphs, charts, tables, and relevant visuals to support research outcomes.

Evaluation & Selection

All submissions will undergo scientific peer review based on originality, relevance, methodology, scientific merit, and clinical significance.

The Scientific Committee aims to encourage wider academic participation by accommodating a greater number of quality research presentations, subject to available slots and selection criteria.

Detailed submission guidelines, important dates, and presentation requirements will be announced soon.

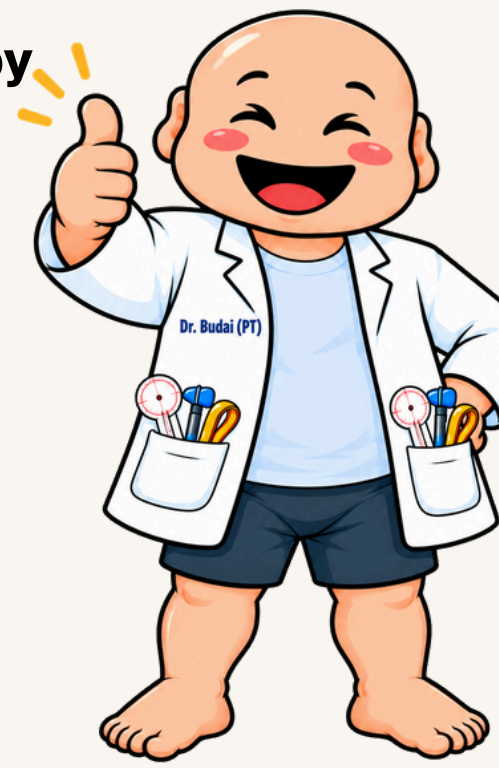

Note: All decisions made by the IIPC Scientific Committee regarding abstract acceptance, selection, and presentation allocation shall be final.
